

They Find the Fun Is Getting There

(Staff Photos by Peter Kramer)

The daytime weather Saturday stayed pleasant for the running of the 12th annual Connecticut River Raft Race, but it probably would not have made too much difference had rain come. Some participants, such as this crew pictured above, cooled off in the water after completing the course from Hurd Park, Haddam Neck, on the river's east bank, to Haddam Meadows on the west bank. One of the entrants, at right, used the race to draw attention to the Montville Bicentennial.
